

"IF I WERE PRINCIPAL FOR A DAY"

by Rayan Rahman

If I were principal for a day, I'd kick things off bright and early, greeting students and staff as they arrived. First impressions matter, and I'd want to set a positive tone for the day. A cheerful greeting can make a big difference in how students feel about starting their day. Students and teachers would be surprised with a fresh hot chocolate and a chocolate sprinkled donut, waking them up from the morning sleepy breeze and getting them ready to learn.-- OR NOT!

If I had an opportunity to become principal for one day, there would be no way I would spend any part of the day on learning. Students would get 45 minutes to play on their computers and eat their food. Teachers on the other hand, would be able to hang out and have a party in the teachers' lounge. Teachers would be surprised with a whole gaming room and specialized square parts of the room especially designed for that specific teacher. They would also have whole fridges full of snacks. A special announcement would also be made that today would be a full sports day.

After the 45 minutes have passed, teachers and students would then reunite and go outside to crossfire, basketball, and soccer fields. Students would then compete in soccer, basketball, and crossfire. The 120 students would then be split into 40 for soccer, 40 for basketball, and 40 for crossfire. Each sport will take 1 hour, and the two teams (40 players) that are assigned to play against each other— the same two teams would be competing in all three sports against each other. Teams would also be triple checked to be qualified, and have a team captain. Once you choose your team, you will be working with that team for all 3 sports.

Soccer-

- 40 people will be divided into 2 teams
- 14 people will be in the court
- 6 people will be practicing and waiting to be subbed in
- After the game is done, the winning team will be scored 1 point per goal

- For every goal a team scores, they will be awarded one point

Basketball-

- 40 people will be divided into 2 teams
- 17 people from both teams will be in the court, with 3 subs for each team
 - Subs will rest and each have a basketball to mess with
- Since basketball is a very high scoring game, for 10 2's would be one point, and 5 3's will be 1 point

Crossfire-

- 40 people will be divided into 2 teams as normal
- No subs this time 18 people will be in, and 2 goalies per round (not really goalies)
- For every 5 people a team gets out, one point will be tallied

Each sport is played for one hour and each team will play all three sports. At the end, the First place winning team by points will each get an apple Watch and iphone 16 pro, and a pair of any nike shoes. Second place will be awarded with a pair of their choice of nike shoes, iphone 16, and $100. Finally, third place would be awarded with A pair of their choice nike shoes, nike socks, nike shorts, nike underwear, nike sweater, nike shirt, and nike headband. For the remainder of the 3 team-60 kids- I would get them a pair of Nike shoes $500 or less, because I am sigma. School would also be dismissed at 12:00 thanks to me, and everyone's homework would be to play video games for an hour. If I were principal for one day, this is what would happen, and then the next day I would be the most famous kid in school.
